INSTRUCTIONS

If your descent from a Loyalist is direct, you need only use Section A to display the lineage. You need not trace the Patriot lineage.

If your descent from a Loyalist is collateral and the Loyalist and Patriot share the same line as either brothers or cousins, trace back to the Patriot ancestor in Section A. Then in Section B, trace the Patriot's line back to the first ancestor he shares in common with the Loyalist ancestor. This ancestor cannot be more distant than a great-great grandfather. In Section C, trace the line down from that first ancestor to the Loyalist ancestor.

If your descent from a Loyalist is collateral, but the Patriot ancestor and the Loyalist ancestor are not related, use Section A to trace back to your direct ancestor of the Revolutionary Generation who is collaterally related to the Loyalist. Use Section B to trace the line of the ancestor of the Revolutionary Generation back to the first ancestor he or she shares in common with the Loyalist ancestor. This ancestor cannot be more distant than a great-great grandfather. Use Section C to trace the line down from that first ancestor to the Loyalist ancestor.

Proof must be furnished for each statement of birth, marriage and death. Cite title, author, volume and page number of printed authorities. File certified or photostatic copies of unpublished records.

Dear Mr. Bockstruck,

I am happy to welcome you as a Life Member #83.

Your application and check have been forwarded to Mr. Jones. I would suggest that you write to one of the persons you mentioned, and ask them to write a note endorsing your membership to him, as well. Any one of the three you mentioned, would, I am sure, be acceptable! Besides, I know you through Physicians & Chirurgeons..

Your proofs are excellent and extraordinarily complete. You are fortunate in having such excellent records.

I do hope to meet you in Washington some day.

Cordially,

Thor B. Andersen
